OTHER BUSINESS INFORMATION

The IRS has issued final regulations regarding the deduction and capitalization of expenditures related to tangible property. Generally, under the final regulations, a taxpayer must distinguish whether an amount paid is for a repair, in which case it may be currently deducted, or is for an improvement to a unit of property, in which case it must be capitalized.

Taxpayers engaged in business activities must answer the following questions regarding such activity:

1. Did you materially participate in the operation of this business during 2023? Yes ___ No ___
Material participation occurs if you: (a) Participate for more than 500 hours during the year, or (b) Your participation represents substantially all the participation in the activity by individuals, including non-owners, or (c) Your participation exceeds 100 hours and no other individual's participation exceeds yours during the year.
2. Are you deducting expenses for business use of your home? Yes ___ No ___
Deductions attributable to the use of your home for business purposes are allowable only on the portion of your home that is used exclusively and on a regular basis as your principal place of business or in connection with your business. Childcare providers will be required to substantiate hours of use.

Business expense non-deductibles: Social club dues, Travel expenses of non-employees, dues to business organizations not deductible to the extent of expenses related to lobbying activities.

PLANNING OPPORTUNITIES

- If family members provide services to the business, consider paying for such services. Such payments could have positive effects on social security, travel expense deductions and IRA contributions.
