By enrolling in SMS messaging communication (the “Program”) with Schneider, Larche, Haapala & Co PLLC (the “Company”), you agree to receive recurring text messages from or on behalf of the Company at the mobile number you provided. These Terms & Conditions apply to your participation in the Program and should be reviewed together with the Company’s general privacy policy and any other applicable terms.

Program Description

The Program is designed to provide consumers with informational and promotional text messages relating to tax, accounting, audit, and miscellaneous bookkeeping communication. Depending on the nature of the business and the consumer's relationship with it, messages may include, without limitation:

- customer care communications, including responses to inquiries, service-related follow-up, support updates, and issue-resolution messages;
- reminders, confirmations, scheduling notifications, and status alerts;
- other brand-related messages that are relevant to the consumer's interaction with the Company.

Message content may vary based on your interactions with the Company, your purchases or service requests, your account preferences, and the specific campaigns or services for which you have opted in.

Message Frequency

Message frequency will vary. You may receive recurring messages, and the number of messages you receive may depend on your transactions, account activity, appointment or service status, and support needs.

Message and Data Rates

Message and data rates may apply. Your mobile carrier may charge fees for text messages or data usage in connection with your participation in SMS messaging. Check your mobile plan and contact your wireless provider for details.

Opt-Out Instructions

You may opt out of the Program at any time by replying STOP to any SMS message you receive from the Company. After you send STOP, you may receive one final message confirming that your opt-out request has been processed.
